All Florida Pest Control Introduces Holistic Approach to Bed Bug Prevention

- All Florida Cedar Oil is safe, successful and cost effective -

(February 2, 2011) MIAMI – All Florida Pest Control is pioneering a natural approach for bed bug control and prevention through non-toxic products and industry tips.

Located in the “Bug Capitol” of the U.S., All Florida Pest Control’s experts across the state recognize the dangers of harmful pesticides to children, elders and pets. Their skilled team implements products such as ALL FLORIDA CEDAR OIL (AFCO) - a chemical free biological formula to rid bed bugs safely and effectively.

According to leading entomologists, the cause of bed bugs in North America is that the pests have grown immune to chemical pesticide treatments. As a result, AFCO is aimed to replace ineffective bed bug treatments and services currently provided by exterminators and toxic “do-it-yourself” products. The product line is a blend of Cedar Oil and hydrated Silica proven to be successful for in-door and out-door use. AFCO’s products can be applied on humans and pets, furniture, carpets, hardwood floors and other surfaces without the concerns of toxicity or undesirable residue.

“Studies show that less than one percent of pesticides actually reach the intended target while the remainder has many unintended recipients including people, pets and furniture. If you choose toxic pesticides, you are compromising your health. Pesticides can be inhaled, ingested and even absorbed through skin pores of humans and pets,” said Jim Maler, CEO of All Florida Pest Control. “Our professional experts focus on a full service, cost effective and safe approach to eliminate bedbugs and toxic levels of pesticides commonly linked to several illnesses including cancer.”

Documentation of bed bugs has dated as far back as the 17th century, and was once thought of as directly related to sanitation and income levels.

New stories across the United States confirm the cleanest places can be infested as bed bugs have been found in 5 star restaurants, luxury hotels and upscale retail and entertainment venues.

All Florida Pest Control suggests Florida residents should become familiar with recognizing bed bugs and knowing where to look for them such as every crack and crevice available within a room or wall. Furthermore, developing a check list for bed bug treatment preparation is highly recommended for everyone.

The resurgence of bed bugs in the U.S. is associated with the international and domestic travel as well as lack of knowledge on how to prevent them. In many cases, it is reported that the solution to bed bugs can be more dangerous than the problem as pesticides are commonly used in 5 star hotels, restaurants, casinos, schools, industrial warehouses, curbside motels and other businesses. The bed bug epidemic has led to an increased exposure of toxic chemicals present in pesticides. Pesticides are the second most common source of childhood poisonings and have been directly linked to cancer, birth defects, neurological, behavioral, reproductive, hormonal, and immune system disorders.

All Florida Pest Control's priorities include getting organic pest control into hotels, schools, day care centers, yards and parks to help create a toxic free environment.
